

Ferrari and Rosso with Antonelli Motorsport in the Italian F4

The team from Emilia officializes the names of the two drivers for the 2019 season looking at the Formula Regional

Rome, 19 February 2019. Lorenzo Ferrari and Andrea Rosso are the two names confirmed by Antonelli Motorsport for the 2019 season of the Italian F4 Championship powered by Abarth.

The team from the Italian region of Emilia, that after two years of absence has returned to the “powered by Abarth” series, focuses on the very young drivers and so looks at the karting scene, the category from which both of the drivers come from. Both Ferrari and Rosso have also showed their capacities in the Supercorso Federale by ACI Sport, to which they have participated in the month of November 2018, after a long journey that this year will reach single-seaters.

Ferrari, from Piacenza, has celebrated his 16 years in October. Rosso instead is 15, coming from Turin city, who, just as his team-mate, has started in karting (ten seasons of experience).

“I am very happy to have Andrea and Lorenzo in the team, also because they are very fast drivers with similar performances – comments Marco Antonelli – In the first tests that we have had in Misano last Thursday and Friday the two have not been far from the fastest. It is clear that we need to start a path of growth, but I believe there are all the elements to do well.”

Nei programmi del team Antonelli Motorsport c'è la possibilità di schierare anche una terza vettura, guardando nel contempo per il futuro anche al Formula Regional European Championship certified by FIA.
